Breakdown of a CREDIT SCORE

What is a CREDIT SCORE?

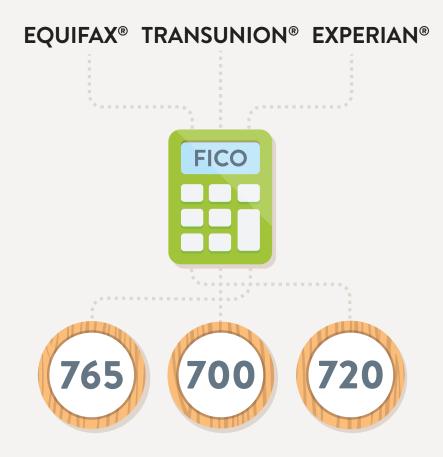

A credit score is a number used by financial institutions and credit card companies to determine risk level when issuing you a loan or a credit card.

The FICO® Score is the most widely used credit score model in North America.

It was introduced in 1989 by Fair, Isaac and Company, now Fair Isaac Corporation.

Since each credit bureau uses its own formula, your FICO Score can vary, depending on which bureau supplies the information.

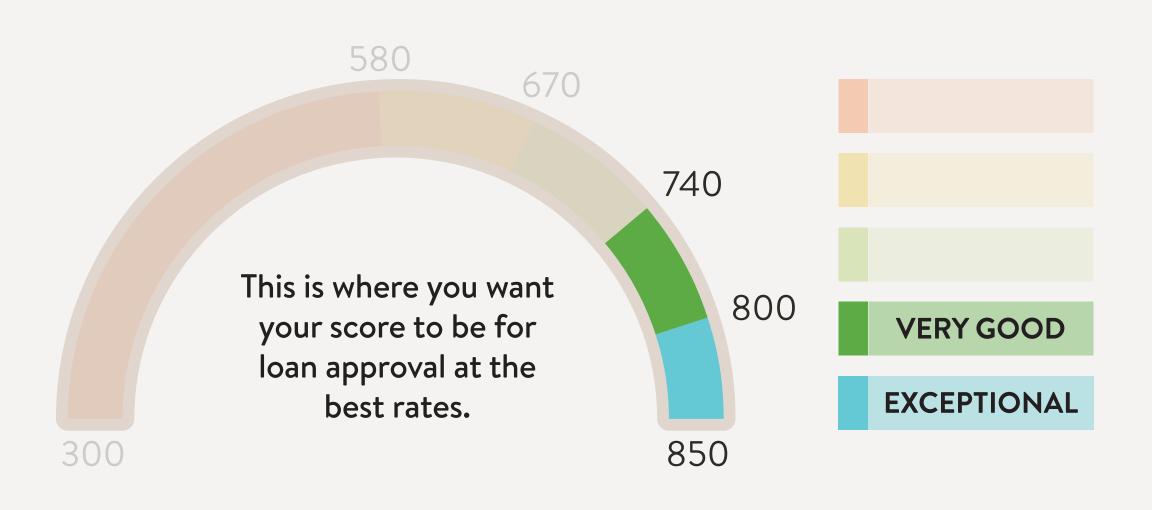

What does my score MEAN?

Why does my score MATTER?

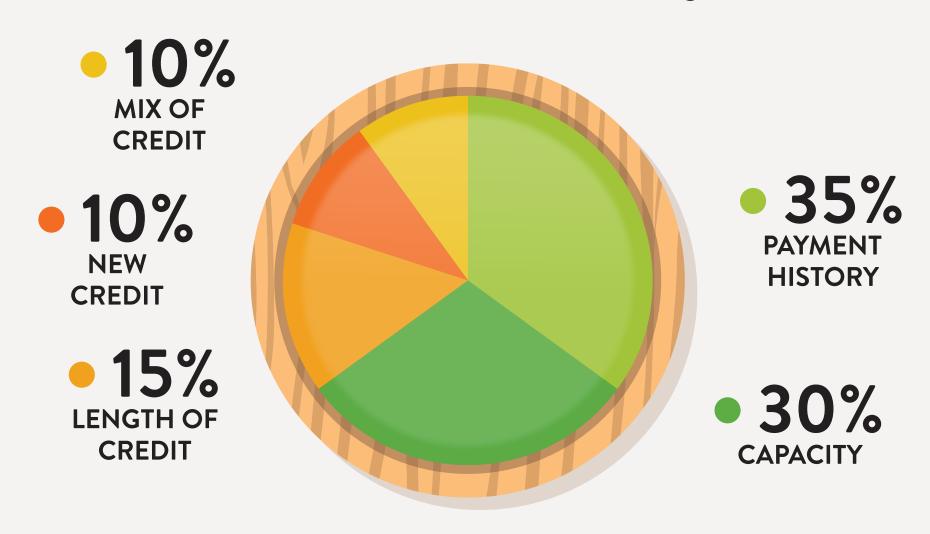

Credit scores can influence:

How are credit scores CALCULATED?

The breakdown of a credit score goes like this:

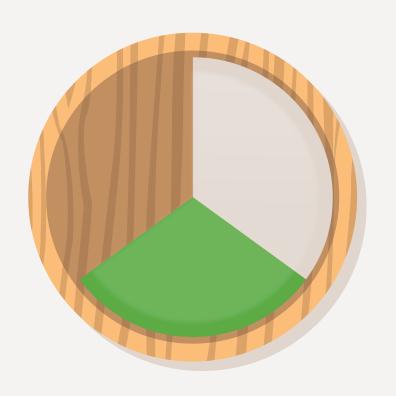

PAYMENT HISTORY (35%)

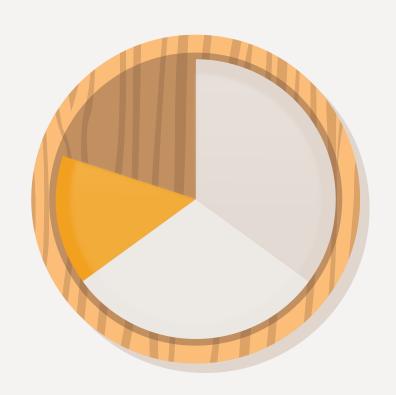

Making payments on time boosts your score

CAPACITY (30%)

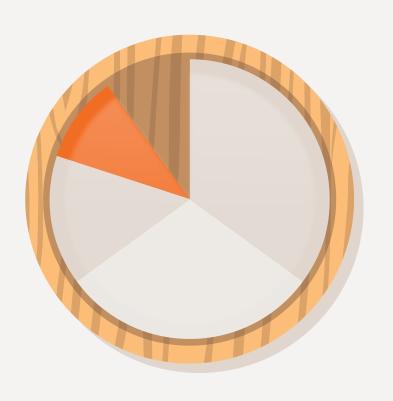

- How much of your available credit you actually use
- The less you use, the better
- Maxing out your lines of credit harms your score

LENGTH OF CREDIT (15%)

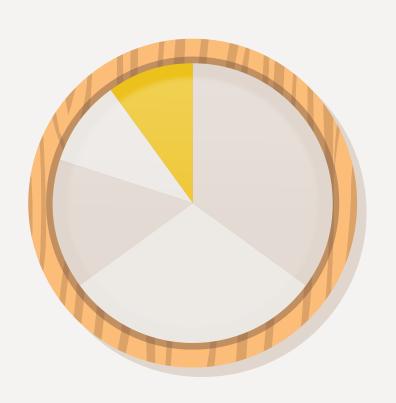

A long history of good credit habits raises your score

NEW CREDIT (10%)

- Opening a bunch of new credit lines in a short amount of time hurts your score
- This includes retail credit cards

MIX OF CREDIT (10%)

- Revolving credit (e.g, credit cards)
- Installment loans (e.g, mortgages, car loans)

How do I keep track of MY SCORE?

You can request one free credit report per year from each of the major credit bureaus.

Visit annualcreditreport.com to get started.

Space out your requests by a few months so you can check on your credit year-round.

Things to look for on your credit report that influence your credit score:

- Account openings
- Account closings
- Repayment history
- Mix of credit
